Really helpful! The best GSI I have ever had. Thank you!
When some students have specific questions, pace of discussion is way too slow for other students.
George is by far one of the best GSIs I've had during my eight semesters at Berkeley. He cares immensely about the students, is extremely helpful during office hours, and is more than willing to spend extra time to help students better understand the material.
My main complaint is that he will frequently cut students off when they're asking a question and then give an answer that isn't relevant. Other than that, his explanations are usually helpful.
The GSI was really accessible and friendly. My only problem with him was that he would go over a the entire lecture during office hours (which some students DID require, but they should have been going to lecture in the first place) and I wouldn't have the time to ask about specific nuanced homework questions.
George was one of, if not the, best GSIs I've had in my time at Berkeley. I attended his office hours regularly because he is incredibly helpful at explaining concepts and assisting with homework examples, and I was able to excel in this course largely due to his tutelage. George is also just genuinely nice, and even offered to help students in other IEOR courses that they were struggling in. He is incredibly approachable and intelligent, and very helpful as a GSI.
10 one of the best GSIs I have had at cal
George is one of the best GSIs I have had at Berkeley. He is easily accessible, great at explaining concepts, and obviously loves the subject. He is a fantastic GSI.
I would feel completely lost without the GSI would be more effective to spend office hours/review sessions answering questions rather than re-teaching the material all over again Really passionate and dedicated; ensuring that students understand concepts and tries his best to explain multiple times until we are able to understand the problem.
